

i don't see the big problem with sattelite radio not being able to get local news and traffic for the major citites that are on their lists. It allows me to get prepared when on a long trip hours before i hit any major traffic jams. If they are not allowed to broadcast this information, then I will lose a lot of faith in the American Government. I am able to get traffic information via my sattelite TV. If you did not want this information to be heard, then the government should have never put the sattelites in the sky in the first place. I think that the men and women in Washington, D.C. really need to stick to the more important issues that this country has rather than to worry about a sattelite company broadcasting local weather and traffic for major cities over the air. So please back off and allow me, the common citezen to get the most for my money.

Thank you,
